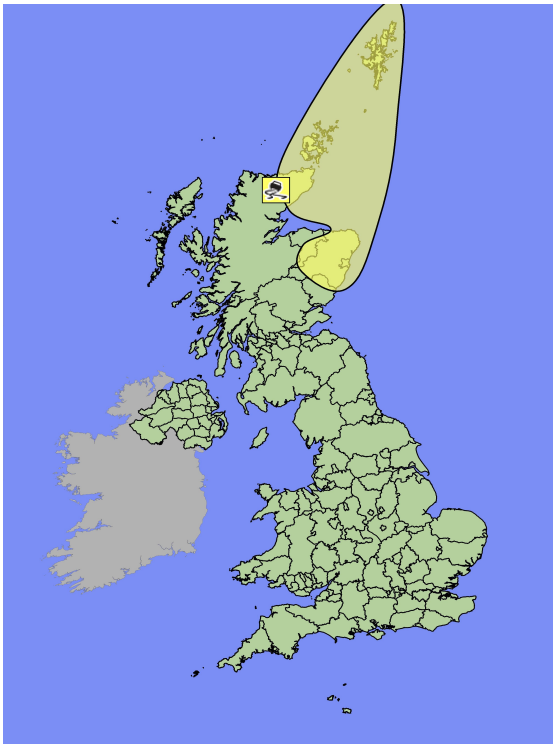
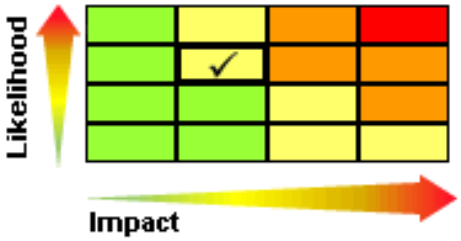
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Road temperatures late on Tuesday evening were just above zero in many areas of northeast Scotland, and with roads wet in many areas ice could form readily wherever cloud breaks occur.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 00:00 on Wed, 26th Dec 2012 until 10:00 on Wed, 26th Dec 2012

Icy stretches are expected to form overnight, especially on surfaces where showers have washed off salt treatments.

The public should be aware that this could lead to difficult driving conditions.
